(via turnfreebaby) I haven't talked anything but shit about the show on this blog in like 2 years but ill be real with you if bumbly happens im back rwby-rose:i have noticed a lot like... confusion as to why people are so frustrated with the addition of several new characters and villains and the frustration towards jaune especially in general and I feel there is a lot of misunderstanding.i have already talked at length about problems with specifically jaunes character-but reach back a little further, you need to understand that for people who have been with rwby since the beginning (and no this is not a discussion about whether or not you are a true fan'base on how long you have been here-if you like rwby you are as good as any other end of the story and not let anyone tell anything else), since the days when the trailers were coming out, it's especially frustrating because then everything we had and everything we knew about rwby was this right here:since November 2012 to July 2013-it's almost four years now-it was a huge , huge fanbase already with this and trailers for these girls who the whole hook for the show. it is over half a year of people's enthusiasm that is completely localised around the promise of the development of these signs, and it is over three years of that promise never fulfilled in respect of some, and only partially fulfilled in the case of others if they are lucky. ruby is a side character in her own show, we just got some background information for weiss in volume 3, blake has undoubtedly the most development of anyone in the whole team and yet it's come to volume 4 and there's just just starting to be the sign of a possible family, and even after volume 2 it feels like her sense of purpose is getting left off the roadside for the benefit of others... scenes (I hesitate to say 'development') of villains who lack a sense of mystery or urgency (because the guidelines for what constitutes magic/glow/dust in this world are not defined in the slightest), yang's motives seem to change on the whims of the authors sometimes and overall everyone just desperately needs more meaningful screentime.jaune is now the main character. I really hate to say it but when you consider who has the most scene and dialogue, who camera fixates on most in group shots, things that wouldn't be so much of a matter of so only, if only ruby developed more than hardly any at all, then it is unfortunately true that ruby has been relegated to a backup character she has been influenced by what happened to yang in the tournament. she has been affected by penny death and pyrrha's, but it is purely cosmetic. she has never actually failed as a direct result of her actions or alleged inexperience and never grown as a result. all that kind of drama saved almost exclusively for jaune: Blake's fight against adam had extreme consequences for yang and it will undoubtedly affect her... when we get to her in the story, too.i understand that it's the first episode. but it's the first episode of the fourth volume. you have to understand that there is a huge amount of people who supported nwb since as far back as the end of 2012 because they fell in love with these girls! and went on for half a year with excitement from just their trailers and some continue to do so, but unfortunately for others their patience has shrunk with the introduction of so many new characters and elements with so little explanation and they are no longer around to see what development or hard work can happen, and it just feels really sad. these were montys girls who he himself likened to being like daughters of him and it just feels like they deserve development already. TL:DR: rwby was advertised in a certain way for upwards of six months: don't be surprised if people are disappointed that the girls don't have development after more than three. I bitch a lot on this blog but this is also great reason I stopped looking at. I really love team rwby and back when I saw the show trailer at the end of red vs blue season 10 and heard monty gush about it, I was super excited for a show centered around girls. Also I realized at the end of last season the reason why it is so easy to find quoted for this blog is that not of the characters except that Jaune is concretized enough, and they can all easily fall into a few sheet types. As I just can't emotionally get into the show it's 4 volumes dude and no one has any depth(via riccasze) Update on this blog: haven't seen the new season of was really really the idea of a bit but forgot why now, was probably the fact Victor mitochondria was still in it and if rather put a hand blender in my ear and bake a fucking cake then deal with that mess If I decide to look at it expect a lot more quotes, if you like RvB then follow my other quotes blog @incorrect-rvb because I will never get tired of it and I update soon. Also run @incorrectrayandvavquotes if that's what your in but no promises of updates there. Now I know I'm not morally against murder, I just wish I had the courage to do it. Yang Xiao Long (about Adam Taurus) Coyotes and ghosts do not fuck with Persians. It's a fact. Emerald Sustrai Poke laying in the black nooks of the past until it devours our fragile present. Bartholomew Oobleck You can trust me because I don't care enough about you to lie. Ash Falls, to Adam Taurus Taurus
